

DRUMBEAT - 53

$ 175,000

Description

53m 5 cabins 10 crew Built in 2002 by Alloy Yachts and designed by Dubois Naval Architects, DRUMBEAT (ex-SALPERTON) is one of the largest modern sailing yachts ever built. Combining excellent sailing performance, sea worthiness and comfort, DRUMBEAT is also the Winner of the 2005 Rolex Transatlantic Challenge. A unique design feature of the yacht is the one-level layout from cockpit through the salon and dining area to the forward wheelhouse. This creates an expansive area for entertaining. The full width Owners' stateroom with King sized bed is extremely spacious. It has an en-suite bathroom with a Jacuzzi bath and shower, a walk-in closet with ample clothes storage, a separate seating area, a desk and state of the art entertainment system. Guest cabins include 2 identical double cabins with seating area and 2 twin cabins (one with a pullman for children only) all with en-suite facilities. Undergoing a major refit again this spring, she will be in optimum condition to pursue her cruise around the world and welcome charter guests for new adventures and excitement.
